Advanced Math & Science III is a college-preparatory high school that equips scholars with the critical thinking, socio-emotional and writing skills to succeed in college and beyond. All scholars take STEM courses in coding and the sciences and develop creative ability through the arts and project-based learning. The school is characterized by a collaborative approach, small classes, and innovative partnerships. All scholars participate in off-campus internships, after-school programs, and involvement in social justice activities. 100% college acceptance rate for every graduating class.

New Visions Charter High Schools

We are college- and career-preparatory public schools that serve students from across New York City. Our schools are personalized, close-knit communities, where students discover themselves and work to reach their greatest academic potential, while preparing for access beyond high school.

Whether one of our Advanced Math & Science schools or one of our Humanities schools, all students gain the tools they need to succeed, with core courses in math, science, English, social studies, technology, and the arts, as well as Advanced Placement (AP) and college-level courses.

Humanities III

At Humanities III, our goal is to prepare you to graduate as a socially-responsible young adult, ready for success in college and any career. The building, every student, has it in them to want to be the best – to reach their highest potential, and this school will help achieve that. You’ll learn about the Humanities through Theater, Journalism and Studio Art classes, as well as Mock Trial, Dance, and Production clubs.
